TRADE MARK

THE JACKSON BANQUET.

The banquet and celebration of Jackson Day was such a splendid success last January that the Democrats of Akron have concluded to again observe the event on Monday evening, January 8. A committee was appointed by the Akron Democratic club last evening to make preliminary arrangements.

Coming at a time when a Republican Congress, presuming too much upon the license of unlimited power, is attempting to farm out to a banking syndicate the government's function of issuing its own paper money, this year's banquet will be especially appropriate and significant.

The Democratic party in Jackson's time, under the leadership of the fearless Jackson, denounced the attempt of the banking syndicate to get control of the government's finances as being "of deadly hostility to the best interests of the country, dangerous to our Republican institutions and the liberties of the people, and calculated to place the business of the country within the control of a concentrated money power, and above the laws and the will of the people."

What has happened that the people should be more in a mood today to tolerate legislation that will remove the most important function of government from their control, placing the business of the country at the mercy of "a concentrated money power," than they were when Jackson made his victorious fight against these evils three quarters of a century ago?

By all means let Summit County's Democrats organize to make their banquet in remembrance of Jackson, a success. The Democratic party is contending today in the same great cause whose success made Jackson famous and protected the welfare and liberties of the people.

THE CONGRESSIONAL FARCE.

Today's dispatches from Washington announce that a clash between the two Houses of Congress upon the Administration's Currency Reform bill is inevitable.

The chief provisions of this bill are that it would re-affirm the Single Gold Standard; would make all government bonds and other obligations payable in gold only; would tend to perpetuate the national debt as a basis for a circulation of bank notes; would retire the greenbacks to make necessary an enlarged issue of non-legal tender bank paper; and would repeal the tax on national bank notes, at the same time permitting the banks to issue bank paper up to the full amount of bonds deposited with the treasury at Washington.

Naturally a great many of the Republican Congressmen who represent districts in which the Republican majority is more or less precarious, know what will happen to them when they face their constituents for re-election next fall should they have given support to this financial measure—so manifestly designed to favor the bond holding and privileged classes at the expense of the producers—hence the opposition of the members of the Lower House to financial legislation at the approaching session.

Just what part the Administration leaders will play in the contest remains to be seen. One thing is certain: The driving through Congress of a currency reform measure such as that proposed—perpetuating the national debt; making bonds that were purchased with worthless greenbacks during the Civil War payable in gold only; contracting the currency by retiring the greenbacks, and turn over to a banking syndicate paper money—will react with fearful effect upon the Administration party in the Presidential and Congressional elections next fall.

The chances are that while the Administration leaders, anxious to retain the favor of the currency reform advocates, may make

If it is Diamonds or Gems that you desire to buy for Gifts. Nobody can help it, but the Prices are advancing, largely because of the South African war. Today's dispatches report on British authority that this will be stubborn and long continued, so that relief in that respect is not near at hand.

a bluff at trying to pass the Currency Reform bill, it will amount to nothing more than a bluff.

HON. DAVID B. HILL, the faded leader of New York's Democracy, has announced, through the chairman of his county's Democratic Executive committee, that he will support the Democratic nominee and platform next year, "even if that nominee is Mr. Wm. J. Bryan, and the platform an affirmation of the Chicago platform." One by one the leaders of the Gold Democratic bolt of 1896, disgusted with the failure of the McKinley Administration to redeem any of its pledges relating to currency reform, are returning to their party. They would rather cast their lot with a party that takes a progressive stand and courageously tries to defend it, than with a party that fritters away four years of opportunities with trimming and scheming to retain its hold upon the public patronage.

"HOW HOPPER WAS SIDETRACKED" is the title of a rousing farce comedy, which, according to the dramatic critics, has been having "a splendid run in popular favor." The only difference between the original, "How Hopper Was Sidetracked," and the local political comedy, "How Alexander Was Sidetracked," at Columbus and Painesville last fall, seems to be that the latter wasn't given a chance to run. "How Griffin Was Sidetracked," is the latest application of the title in local political circles. If there are any more candidates for sidetracking honors, trot them out. Did any one mention Col. Sanford?

SENATOR Chandler, New Hampshire's Republican statesman, who has attracted national attention by opposing the Administration's gold standard policy—that is, opposing it until it comes to voting, when he supports it—is trying to launch a boom for the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt next year to succeed Vice-President Hobart. The senator seems to be all alone in the matter, as Roosevelt himself is opposed to the plan. For if Gov. Roosevelt wants to eliminate himself as a presidential possibility in 1904, all he will have to do would be to step into the vice-president's office.

It might be told, as a matter of news, that Mr. S. D. Hollenbeck, of Geauga county, has sent a nice pony to Col. Dick. The fact that Mr. Hollenbeck is a candidate for the appointment as U. S. District Marshal is a mere incident. The Beacon goes over the local field every day with a hay-rake for news about Col. Dick, but this interesting bit of information about the pony seems to have gone through the prongs. Henceforth our esteemed neighbor should use a fine-tooth comb.

The tariff and special war taxes are drawing an enormous volume of money from the channels of trade. The incoming Congress purposes to remedy matters by piling on more taxes and by retiring the greenbacks from circulation. If this is done Wall Street will be the first to clamor for another purchase of government bonds that money may be put back into circulation. And this is the kind of financing that restores and maintains "confidence."

THE DEMOCRAT wishes all of its readers and patrons a happy holiday tomorrow. American people have many blessings to be thankful for, national and otherwise, and tomorrow will be a day of Thanksgiving in spirit as well as name.

MR. S. D. HOLLENBECK, of Geauga, will be appointed U. S. District Marshal, and Senator J. J. Sullivan, of Warren, will be appointed District attorney. Stick a pin in that.

THE three hundred Summit county Republicans who have been promised federal appointments by Col. Dick will find promises very poor sauce for their Thanksgiving dinners tomorrow.

VICE PRESIDENT HOBART left an estate of more than $5,000,000. His entry into politics was merely for recreation.

ABOUT all of Akron's people would be thankful to know how Mayor Young and Judge Anderson are going to break the City Commissioner deadlock.

THE gift of a load of coal or an order for provisions would be a good way to cheer some destitute family tomorrow.

Use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup at once for bronchitis and grippe. It has stood the test and is positively a reliable remedy. Life is too short to experiment with new so-called "sure cures." Bull's Cough Syrup costs but 25 cts.

THE GREAT GAME.

All Arrangements Made to Entertain a Big Crowd.

People who don't know the difference between a flying wedge, end run or buck will witness the much talked of Kirkwood-Elk foot ball game on Thanksgiving at the Buchtel College grounds. In fact, both clubs anticipate such an enormous crowd that 20 policemen will be stationed on the grounds to preserve order and keep the small boys from stealing their way into the grounds.

There is good timber in both elevens, but it is believed that either side may score at any time on a fluke. The Kirkwood team will have its last practice tonight.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm Cures Others, Why Not You?

My wife has used Chamberlain's Pain Balm with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best of satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well. —Adolph L. Skilful Treatment.

The France physicians of the France Medical Institute Co., will make their regular monthly visit to Akron, where they may be seen at the Empire House Friday, December 8th, from 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. One day only. The doctors are meeting with gratifying success and we advise the afflicted to consult them on the above date. Their specialties are chronic, private and special diseases of men and women, and they give their entire attention to the treatment of these complaints. Health is as important as life and no invalid who values health can afford to lose this opportunity of obtaining skilful treatment. Consultation free and strictly confidential.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all the kind neighbors and friends, and to those who contributed the beautiful flowers and to Mr. King for their kind sympathy in our bereavement in the loss of our darling son and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Burrell and Family.

An Odd Frame.

A pretty, odd photograph frame has been given to the Professional Woman's league. It is cardboard, folded, and contains the pictures of three well known leading men. The entire surface of the frame is covered with coupons of theater tickets. On each of the very tiny letters is written the date, name of the escort and color of the gown worn. The coupons are put on in artistic disorder, and it is the work of a very patient and ardent matinee girl.

BENCH SHOW

Of Akron's Poultry

And Pet Stock Club an Assured Success.

Great Enthusiasm and Interest Indicated

Everywhere by the Poultry Breeders and Fanciers.

Many Special Features Arranged by Executive Committee.

The bench show to be given from January 2 to 6, by the Akron Poultry and Pet Stock Club will bring together the greatest display of high-class poultry and pet stock ever exhibited in Akron.

Members of the Executive committee of the club are putting forth every effort to secure features that will attract and interest. All feel assured of success. The committee is composed of these persons: President, J. W. Lyder; vice president, Samuel J. Hibbs; secretary, E. W. Grubb; corresponding secretary, J. Asa Palmer; treasurer, George C. Conger; Julius Frank, Robert Mair, George H. Stickney.

Indications are that the new Walsh block will be strained to its utmost to make room for the extended classification provided for all kinds of standard-bred poultry, pigeons, pet stock, cats and cage birds. Akron is the Mecca for the fancier, and the unprecedented value in cash specials offered by the management will bring to this exhibition the very best specimens of poultry and fancy stock in the land. Some of the leading specialty clubs in the state will hold their meetings in Akron during the week of the show. Among the prominent associations will be the White Minorca club, of which J. W. Lyder is president.

The show will be cooped under the able management of Superintendent George H. Stickney, who has diagrams prepared for a beautiful interior picture of well-located coops. Each specimen shown will have advantage of perfect light and location. The extensive space of the room will permit all the display, including hatching and other devices, pet stock, cat and bird departments, to be located on the main floor.

The premium list is very large, and a careful reading of it will benefit all those interested in the show. Especially will it be found useful to poultry and pet stock breeders.

Copies of the premium list book may be secured from the corresponding secretary, J. Asa Palmer.

Matched.

Jack Daly of Wilmington, has been matched to fight 20 rounds with Jack Hudson, who is dubbed "the Chicago mystery," before the Rockport club in Cleveland on Monday, Dec. 4. It is probable that a special train will be run from Akron to Cleveland on that night.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cures the most stubborn coughs, colds and lung affections. Even incipient consumption has been successfully cured by this marvelous remedy. Sufferers will obtain relief after a few doses. 18

Officers Elected.

Summit Lodge I.O.O.F. elected officers Monday night as follows:

Noble grand, Frank Teeple; vice noble grand, C. O. Bunts; recording secretary, R. E. Washer; financial secretary, S. D. Wurts; treasurer, J. T. Sull; trustee, A. C. Bachtel.

John Stair and A. C. Bachtel are candidates for delegate to the Grand Lodge from this district. This contest will not be decided until other lodges cast their vote.

Not a Surprise.

It will not be a surprise to any who are at all familiar with the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, to know that people everywhere take pleasure in relating their experience in the use of that splendid medicine and in telling of the benefit they have received from it, of bad colds it has cured, of threatened attacks of pneumonia it has averted and of the children it has saved from the attacks of croup and whooping cough. It is a grand, good medicine. For sale by all druggists. E. Steinbacher & Co., wholesale agents.

Started a Run.

A very simple statement proved very unfortunate to a savings institution in the rural district recently. An editor, in writing of the institution in his paper, said:

"The president is a very tall man; the cashier is short."

And in less than an hour the excited depositors were asking, "How much—how much?"—Atlanta Constitution.

Thanksgiving evening dance at XXth Century hall next Wednesday evening. All pupils and friends invited. W. F. Stickley.

Took Him at His Word.

The faculty of terse and forceful speech is ordinarily an advantage, but occasionally a man gets hoisted by his own epigram. A hustling young New Yorker who was recently established in a branch of the oil business had set out to get the patronage of a certain firm. The head of the concern was reluctant to make a change.

"The oil we have been getting has not been satisfactory," said he, "and I fail to see why we should make a change. Are there any extra inducements you can offer? How do you propose to improve on the old quality?"

"In this way," was the prompt answer. "I propose to give the business my personal attention. I intend to put some of my brains into every barrel of oil we send out."

The rejoinder pleased the old gentleman, and he became a customer.

A few months later the hustling young man was obliged to make a journey, and in his absence, through some oversight, the quality of oil was allowed to deteriorate. It was quickly noted, and a letter on file in the office records one of the protests. It reads: "Gentlemen—When we were induced to use your product, we were assured that Mr. Blank put some of his brains into every barrel of oil. We deeply regret to observe that Mr. Blank is threatened with paresis."—Washington Star.

A Thrifty Seat.

A good story is told by an English tourist who staid for a week in apartments in Aberdeen, the "Granite City."

"I had heard," he says, "of the canny folk of Aberdeen, and my experience, short though it was, proved that rumor had rightly estimated the character of the people. The streets are granite, the houses are granite, and the inhabitants are granite, and when they gave a granite baby they gave it a ball of granite for fear it should break any other toy."

"I had a granite landlady, and one day when I was going fishing her son volunteered to accompany me. I provided the lunch, the rods and the lines; he provided the worms—dug them up in a neighbor's garden with a borrowed spade. I caught 10 trout; he ate the lunch and broke my best rod. When we got home, I made a present of 14 of the fish to my granite landlady and asked her to cook the other two for my tea. She did and charged me threepence for the dripping in which they were fried!"—London Answers.

Men as Creeds.

The glittering generalities of Thomas Jefferson that all men are created equal and that the right of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness is inalienable, have been the texts for many injurious instructions. They are rhetorical flourishes, meaningless to the gentleman on the scaffold and to the Sing Sing, who pursued the fleeting phantom of happiness with the jimmie of the burglar and the dagger of the assassin. Men are not created equal physically, morally or intellectually, nor in aptitude, opportunity nor condition. It is perhaps accurate to say of the 3,500,000,000 inhabitants of the earth no two are created equal. Nature is incapable of uniformity and of equality as much as she abhors a vacuum. One is made to honor, another to dishonor, as one star differs from another star in glory.—John J. Ingalls.

The Figure Dickens Got.

Satirists are not able to perceive their own absurdities. That is a well known failing and as old as the hills. The first great English writer to come over here and create a furor was Charles Dickens, and certainly no man ever lived who had a sharper eye for the grotesque in personal appearance, especially in dress. According to all accounts, his make up was something appalling. My old uncle saw him in New Orleans and used to swear he looked more like a caricature than a human being. He curled his beard, used corsets, sported red waistcoats with lavender pantaloons, carried two watches with gold chains around his neck and wore rings inside his gloves! Just think of it!

A Happy Thought.

The spontaneous and happy wit of the late Isaac H. Bromley, for many years a writer of New York Tribune leaders, is recalled by the example below:

One day in The Tribune office the veteran journalist Charles T. Condon was talking of the delightful reading he had found in Bayle's Dictionary and remarked that if he were ever in jail he would be quite contented with that book.

"Of course you would," said Bromley. "If you had Bayle, you could get out."

Getting Out of a Corner.

"What a beautiful lounge!"

"Yes, that's a birthday present from my husband. He always gives me a present that costs him as many dollars as I am years old."

"That's nice of him. It reconciles one to growing old. By the way, I have a lounge at home like that, but not nearly as fine, and we paid $38 for it."

"Is that all? This—this didn't cost nearly as much as that!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Moderate Man.

"How much is this soap a cake?"

"Take two for 15 cents."

"Two? Do you think I buy soap by the wholesale?"—Fleegande Blatter.

No trait of character is more valuable to a woman than the possession of a sweet temper. Home can never be happy without it. It is like the flowers that spring up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us.
